A screenshot of a Mac screen displaying a screenplay writing software interface. The main window shows a document titled "Bull-blue" with the following text:

1.

BULL

Written by Kent Tessman

EARLY MORNING

The sun has yet to properly rise, but already it's hot. It's the middle of summer and today is going to be punishing.

Outside the BULLWORTH-BEECH BUILDING, an unusually art-deco building in a mountain range of skyscrapers, a NIGHT JANITOR comes out at the end of his shift to sit on a concrete bench. He sighs, shoulders slumped, bones aching after a night spent scrubbing the grime off the floors of commerce.

He sits down and puts a cigarette in the corner of his mouth. Takes out a lighter, tries to light the cigarette but the lighter won't strike, and then the cigarette slips out of his mouth and tumbles to the ground.

LOW ANGLE

Grumbling, cursing, like this is the last damned straw, he bends forward to pick it up.

A SPECK APPEARS high above him, at the top of the building.

The speck gets bigger. It gets closer.

It's something falling.

The interface includes a menu bar at the top with "Fade In", "File", "Edit", "View", "Format", "Document", "Window", and "Help". On the right side, there are two panels: "Format" and "Navigator". The "Format" panel has tabs for "Format", "Characters", "Locations", and "Other", and lists scene headings from 1 to 7, plus "0 Unformatted Text" and "Title". It also shows a font selection area with "Courier Screenplay 12 pt". The "Navigator" panel shows a list of scenes: "EARLY MORNING" (Page 1 (5/8 pages)), "BIG TITLE:" (Page 1 (2/8 pages)), "OVER BLACK" (Page 2 (1/8 pages)), and "OMITTED" (Page 2 (1/8 pages)). At the bottom of the Navigator panel, it says "Page 1 of 102" and has a "Show" button.

This is because Pressbooks focuses on just two types of publications: novels and training manuals.. Its high price may dissuade some from trying it, though. Bottom Line: With a professional interface and wealth of tools, Script Studio is among the best writing apps you'll find.

This software can't format online magazines or picture books, unlike other services.. It's also not the best place to try to design memorable family scrapbooks or personal mementos.
